Welcome to JMU BASEBALL

A Message From Coach Spanky McFarland

Welcome to JMU baseball. We have three goals here at JMU that we strive for year in and year out.

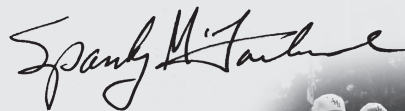

1. To get a great degree from a great university. The academics at JMU are nationally ranked and a degree from JMU is priceless.
2. To win championships. JMU baseball has a storied tradition and has the highest winning percentage in the state of Virginia. Most recently in 2008, the Dukes won the CAA championship and played well in the NCAA regionals. We have won many regular season championships and have attended several NCAA tournaments, including 1983 when the Diamond Dukes advanced to the College World Series. JMU was the first university in Virginia and, to date, the only state school to reach Omaha.

3. To play at the next level. JMU leads the state and the CAA in number of players who have had the opportunity to play professional baseball. JMU has produced 78 players in its 39-year existence who have gone on to play professionally, with 11 of those reaching the major leagues. We currently play our home games in historic Long Field/Mauck Stadium, but construction has begun on a new facility to be located on the west side of campus. The new facility will be state of the art and house the entire program and all of its needs, including locker rooms, training rooms, weight room, team room, study hall/computer lab area, coaches offices, and indoor workout space. The target date for this new facility is for the 2010 season.

It's an exciting time for JMU baseball as we take the next step into the new millennium.

Go Dukes!

Coach Mac

THIS IS JMU BASEBALL PAST, PRESENT, FUTURE

James Madison University's baseball program has been in existence for 32 seasons at the NCAA Division I level. In that short amount of time, the program under the direction of first head coach Brad Babcock, head coaches Ray Heatwole and Kevin Anderson, and currently head coach Joe "Spanky" McFarland has been a player in the Colonial Athletic Association, regionally, and on the national level.

With one CAA tournament championship, five conference regular season championships, eight NCAA regional appearances and a trip to Omaha for the College of World Series, the program truly is stacked with winning tradition.

Being hidden away in the beautiful Shenandoah Valley of western Virginia hasn't kept professional baseball scouts from discovering the wealth of quality athletes in the JMU baseball program. More than 78 players have had the opportunity to play at the next level, with 11 players reaching Major League Baseball.

Team work is a staple at JMU, yet there have been several baseball players who have won individual awards along the way. JMU has produced 14 All-Americans, nine freshmen All-Americans, and 47 All East Region players. Both Eddie Kim and Kellen Kulbacki were two-time CAA Player of the Year honorees and Kulbacki was tabbed the National Division I Player of the Year after his amazing 2006 season.

Academically, JMU has grown from a small college to a major university that is highly rated by all of the publications whose job it is to rank the various aspects of higher education.

Going into the 2009 season, 20 of 25 players return to defend the program's first CAA championship, which was achieved in 2008 with a 39-19 season. The talent is stocked with three consecutive top-ranked recruiting classes. Three returning freshmen All-Americans return to bolster the pitching staff, including starter Turner Phelps and the closing duo of Kevin Munson and Trevor Knight. The Dukes return experience at every position on the field, led by returning all-CAA outfielder Alex Foltz, and welcome a speedy group of newcomers who have already proven capable of stepping in and contributing. They have the challenge of replacing Brett Sellers and Steven Caseres, who have moved onto professional careers after combining for 38 doubles, 38 home runs, and 125 RBIs in 2008.

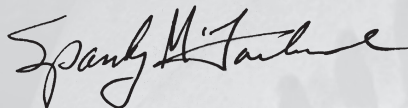

The fall season was tremendously successful, on the field, in the classroom, and in the weight room, as the present team as a group got after it and worked extremely hard. It's not easy to be a member of the JMU baseball program. There are 6 a.m. workouts, challenging academics, and long, hard practices that will test even the most committed. The lessons learned are invaluable and will carry you through life.

The future of the JMU baseball program is bright. At this time the university has begun construction on a new state of the art baseball stadium. The coach's offices, locker room, team room, weight room, training room, and indoor practice facility will be moved to Memorial Hall, which is located about 100 yards from the new stadium. This is a giant step toward the goal of James Madison University taking a leap forward in the national rankings in baseball.

I invite you to learn more about our program by visiting our web page at JMUSports.com or by attending one of our outstanding summer or winter camps. My staff and I look forward to spending time with you as you make your academic and athletic choices in the near future.

Sincerely,

Coach Mac

TRADITION OF EXCELLENCE

College World Series - 26th Anniversary

For as long as baseball is played at James Madison University, the 1983 season will always hold a special significance in the history of one of JMU's most successful athletic programs. The Dukes opened the season with an exhibition doubleheader against the defending world champion St. Louis Cardinals, won the NCAA Eastern Regional championship, competed in the College World Series and had four players chosen in the major league baseball draft.

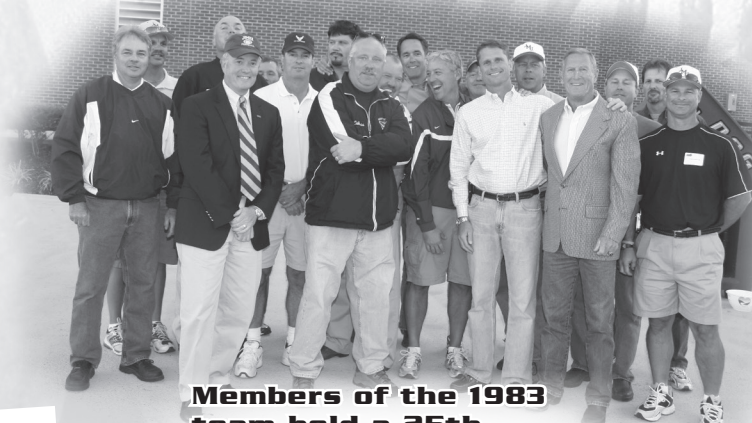

JMU received an at-large bid to the NCAA Eastern Regional where the Dukes stunned a strong field to become the first Virginia team to qualify for the College World Series.

JMU, which compiled a 37-13 record, was among the final entries selected for the 36-team NCAA field, and the Dukes silenced any critics with their on-field performance. JMU upset top-seeded South Carolina 9-4 in the opener of the six-team tournament and used timely hitting, consistent pitching and solid defense to compile a 4-0 regional record.

After the win over South Carolina the Dukes defeated ECAC South Tournament champion William and Mary (13-8), Southern Conference winner The Citadel (5-2) and East Coast Conference champion Delaware (6-5).

Having advanced to the College World Series, the Dukes faced two of the nation's top three teams in Omaha, Neb. The CWS field of eight teams included several future major leaguers, including Barry Bonds, Roger Clemens, Barry Larkin, Pete Incaviglia, Dave Magadan, and Chris Sabo. The Dukes fell to Texas and CWS Most Outstanding Player Calvin Schiraldi 12-0 before then being eliminated by Stanford 3-1.
